

Pursuing Center Certification via SWCA-CARE: A Workshop for Preparing Your Application

Abstract

The Southeastern Writing Center Association's CARE (Center Acknowledgement and Recognition of Excellence) program offers the only certification developed by writing center professionals for writing centers. If you're looking to engage your staff in meaningful reflection about your pedagogy, practices, mission, and values in ways that attend to your local contexts, CARE certification might be a good fit for your center. This workshop will cover how certification can be an asset to your center as well as how to compile and submit your application. Centers outside of the SWCA region are welcome!

Presenters

Jennifer Smith Daniel, Ph.D., is the Director of the Writing Center and Writing Across the Curriculum Programs. She is an alum of Queens. She holds an MA from UNC Charlotte in English Literature and recently successfully defended her dissertation in Rhetoric and Composition at UNC Greensboro. Her areas of focus are writing pedagogies, inclusive teaching practices, multiliteracies, feminist rhetorics, and ecological assessment. She teaches in the Professional Writing and Rhetoric program of the English Department and the First Year Writing Program. Her scholarship has been published in the Community Literacy Journal, Praxis: A Writing Center Journal, Teaching Tips, and Tiny Teaching Stories: Restoring Your Tongue (MacMillan Learning Bits Blog). She is currently the Co-Chair for the Southeastern Writing Center Association C.A.R.E. certification committee.

Layli Miron, Ph.D., has worked in writing centers since 2010, when she started tutoring as an undergraduate. She currently is Associate Director of University Writing at Auburn University, where she coordinated the Miller Writing Center's CARE Certification in 2022.
